Henry Goodman

“With fixed income investments, people know what they’re going to get, when they’re going to get it. And when you need your money, you know it’s going to be there.”

- Financial Professional holding Series 7, 63 licenses
- Specializes in fixed income investing

Henry Goodman was a pre-law major in college—which has given him a unique perspective on investing. In the 40 years he’s been in the business, he’s learned the intrinsic value of bonds. Henry understands that steady income, compounded interest and solid returns are the best path to prosperity, and he’s proud of his track record in helping his clients achieve their goals.

Henry believes in treating clients like family. Thanks to his direct access to HJ Sims’ banking team and expert credit analysts, Henry is well positioned to provide tailored recommendations to his clients, the same recommendations he would consider for himself. He also makes sure that clients know he’s always there for them; after all, they’ve trusted him with their hard-earned savings.

One of Henry’s favorite hobbies is fantasy baseball, but he’s adamant that there’s no place for fantasy in investing. Henry advises people to know what your investments are. Take advantage of the power of compounding. Don’t let yourself be fooled by hidden fees.
